

Diane Stanton, MA, RNC
Mt. Sinai Hospital, NY

Diane Stanton, MA, RNC has been a Neonatal Intensive Care Nurse for 26 years and has a specialized certification in that area. She is a member of the National Association of Neonatal Nurses and the Association of Women's Health, Obstetrics and Neonatal Nurses. Her clinical experiences include educating families and staff about issues related to the care of sick neonates and premature infants, co-leading a NICU parent support group and preparing families for discharge. She has presented various relating neonatal topics at Mt. Sinai conferences and Nursing Grand Rounds.

Diane is a CPR instructor and a Regional NRP (Neonatal Resuscitation Program) instructor. Currently, she is the Clinical Nurse Manager of a 35 bed Neonatal Intensive Care Unit at The Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York City.