Recep Tayyip Erdogan, Prime Minister of Turkey

Strategic Foresight Group has demonstrated in merely half a decade that it has the conviction and competence to develop an alternative worldview in a constructive way. We also have intellectual and political assets to draw input from all continents and deliver output to decision-makers anywhere in the world. We would now like to invite stakeholders and partners from different parts of the world to transform our promise into the reality of a collaborative global endeavour. We are confident that together we can make a difference.

Jenny Shipley, former Prime Minister of New Zealand
